

Sometimes, we describe our Summerosity event as 'a free curiosity retreat for the charity sector - a day for practical inspiration, fresh perspectives and playful, hands-on creativity.'

Sometimes we say it's like the 'charity sector's awayday.' And sometimes we just say 'it's not like other sector events.' All these things are true, but none of them quite do it justice.

So why not get a proper flavour of what's on offer: head down the rabbit hole to learn about some of the highlights from previous events - and then click the link to pre-register for our next one...

Ever wondered what your supporters really think about the comms they're getting? Our live unboxing panels give you the honest, unfiltered truth.

Aha strategist, Holly, shed some light on the damp, dark and mysterious world of fungi - and how they might just save the world. A profound story of interconnectedness that left us wanting spore.

Beatboxing World Champ (and all round inspiring presence) SK Shlomo brought the boots and cats and boots and cats and boots and cats to their 2025 keynote and beatboxing masterclass.

Did you know that putting one of these next to a donate button, you can increase conversion rates significantly? Well, if you'd come to our behavioural economics masterclass you would've done.

Mark 'the fish guy' from Defra netted the uncoffical title of most interesting Curious talk... EVER when he lifted the lid on the weirdly fascinating world of fish stocks. By the end of it, we were all seriously questioning the existence of Cod.

A haiku workshop? Not what I'd normally do. Really refreshing
